

LITIGATION PROGRAM

(A Practical & Dedicated Approach to Litigation)

Who are we?

LASD Educational Society (NGO) is a Non-Profit Organization which is involved in sectors of Legal Education, Legal Aid and Social Reforms, expressly focusing on students and people belonging to backward communities, who are resource deprived or suppressed. It is a development of professional legal enthusiasts who undertake to legally empower citizens of the State of Uttar Pradesh, contributing towards their social and moral responsibility.

Why this program?

This program is designed to assist the students pursuing law and those who have completed their law college and are willing to pursue litigation as their carrier option, in developing their basic understanding of Court procedures, etiquettes, drafting and researching. This program would help the students to get an overall understanding of the field of litigation and the challenges and rewards in the field of litigation.

INTRODUCTION

The present program aims at providing you a common platform to build upon and enhancing your skills in drafting, researching, court etiquettes, legal knowledge, etc before entering the world of Litigation. There are numerous programs available on the internet which assists you in enhancing your drafting and legal skills, however the present program is a step ahead from those programs and will not only assist you improving your drafting skills but will also give you an insight into nuances of litigation and will provide you a platform to interact with practising advocates of various High Court across the country, who would share their knowledge and experience in the field of Litigation and tell you how to conduct yourself in court and how to tackle complex issues and build upon your client base. The endeavour is to provide you with the basic knowledge of litigation before you start practising.

It is a known fact that when once you graduate from college and enter into profession, the real world is totally different from the bookish world that you have lived through your 5 years/ 3 years of college. You have to start from scrap and thereafter build your skills and apply your bookish knowledge to the real-world problems. Further lack of guidance is also a major factor due to which young lawyers take at least 5-6 years to develop their skills and start to get the essence of Litigation and develop an interest in the field.

What if you get the knowledge and assistance from an industry expert who would guide you through the nuances of litigation and share their experience in and off courts? What if you know even before stepping into the Court room, how to conduct yourself in court room or how to tackle complex situations that may arise during the course of hearing? What if you know how to deal with clients and to increase your client base?

Although Litigation is a field where experience matters more than anything, but experience can be gained by sharing experience of other who are actually practicing. Thus, the present program aims at giving you a real time experience into the field of Litigation by organising seminars with various legal professional, partners of law firms, industry experts, providing you with extensive study material, enhancing your drafting skills, providing your with real time case studies, testing your knowledge and giving you a practical approach to the field of Litigation.

The present program provides you with a complete glimpse of the legal field and guides you to select your specific area of interest and build your carrier in the said field.
