RULE BOOK

About the Competition

This competition is built on the idea of embracing diverse viewpoints (Vividh). Participants are provided with a topic usually a draft Bill or policy paper and are expected to propose their amendments to it.

All submitted proposals are then discussed in detail. Participants analyze the provisions, examine the nuances of the topic, and articulate their positions clearly. Every participant has complete liberty to:

- Propose or not propose any amendment(s).
- Agree, disagree, or remain neutral on the points raised by co-participants.
- Recommend alternative approaches to their own or others' proposals.

Participants must, however, substantiate their views articulately and engage constructively with the viewpoints presented by others.

Structure of the Discussion

Each discussion follows a specific format, determined by the topic, the moderator, and the amendments submitted. The discussion format may include:

- Allocation of time for each point or round
- Order in which points will be discussed
- Reservation of time for specific interventions
- Procedure for proposing and submitting amendments

The Moderator will communicate the structure, rules, and duration of the round before the discussion begins. The process is entirely moderator-driven, and participants are expected to respect and follow the moderator's directions at all times.

Objective and Spirit of the Competition

The primary aim of the competition is to:

- Enable participants to express their viewpoints on the topic
- Encourage understanding and analysis of differing viewpoints
- Facilitate the addressing of potential clashes in perspectives

Participants are expected to present their arguments with clarity and proficiency so that others can understand and possibly empathize with their perspective. Likewise, they should remain open to appreciating the perspectives of their fellow participants.

Ultimately, the goal is to work together, navigate differences constructively, and strive toward a meaningful collective conclusion.

This competition requires participants to:

- Brainstorm and think critically
- Remain calm, composed, and analytical
- Apply wit, intelligence, and reasoning
- Engage thoughtfully with the nuances of this unique format

Circulation of Draft Bills

Drafts of the Bills prepared by Drishtikon shall be circulated to all through the links in the brochure. Each draft will serve as the core document for the discussion. The drafts will be inspired by real-world occurrences and presented in the form of a Bill or policy paper. Participants are required to confine their submissions and analysis to the context provided within these drafts.

Structure of the Competition

The competition will consist of two stages:

1. Preliminary Rounds
2. Final Round

Preliminary Rounds

- The Prelims will be divided into four separate rounds.
- Each round will have a fixed minimum number of participants qualifying for the Finals.
- Since there are four distinct preliminary rounds, each round will have a different draft as its topic.

Final Round

- The Final Round will feature a new draft, distinct from those used in the Prelims.

Allocation of Topics and Rounds

Participants will be asked to indicate their topic preferences at the time of registration. Based on these preferences and, if required, through a lottery/chit system participants will be allotted:

- Their round number, and
- The topic/draft designated for that round,

While ensuring equitable participation across all rounds.
